The Triumphant Soul

Woman,
The pride of creation
The bride of ambition,
The mystified generation.
She walks uprightly and talks righteously,
The epitome of all vitality.

Woman,
She is the sun that shines in the dark,
The seed that grows into a bark;
She never lurks in the past
But transcends the melancholic steadfast.

Woman,
She is the channel of hope in dimmest times,
The robust rock in trembling mines.
She is the solace to bruised souls;
An uplifter or drowned goals.

Woman,
A generous giver at all times,

Her life a fruitful sublime.
She is the joy in blue skies;
The comforter to lost minds

Woman,
A fire that burns bright
In the soul of all lives.
